

Ecozon@: European Journal of Literature, Culture and Environment welcomes contributions for future issues. Ecozon@ is a journal published by the University of Alcalá, Spain and sponsored by EASLCE (European Association for the Study of Literature, Culture and the Environment) and GIECO/Franklin Institute of the University of Alcalá. Each issue has a general section and a special focus section as well as creative writing, art work and book or film reviews. Interviews and round table discussions are also accepted on occasion if relevant to the issue; please consult the editors in the first instance. Ecozon@ does not accept personal essays or opinion pieces.

CALL FOR PAPERS for the GENERAL SECTION

Submissions must be scholarly articles, exploring the relationship between human beings, culture and the environment. Submission of an article requires the assurance that the manuscript represents original work and has not been previously published (in print or online). Nor should the manuscript be under current consideration for publication elsewhere. All academic articles are double blind peer reviewed. The proposed essays (6000-8000 words) together with a one paragraph 250 word (maximum) abstract in the language of the article, as well as in English and Spanish, together with 4-5 keywords in the same languages, must be submitted online following the submission guidelines (free submission) from the website: www.ecozona.eu. Articles are accepted in English, Spanish, French, German and Italian. Deadlines for submissions in the general section are January 15th for the autumn issue and July 15th for the spring issue although this may vary according to the peer review and revision process. Every submission must follow the MLA format and the author accepts responsibility for copyright on all materials included in the paper such as images, quotations, etc. See author guidelines for more details:
